Choosing the right luggage is not that easy. There many different sizes, forms and prizes out there. If you need a new piece of luggage for your next holidays, here you have some rules of thumb you can take into account.

1. Consider the purpose of your trip (or the majority of your trips)

Luggage come in many different designs, and this is not just a matter of taste. Depending on the purpose or kind of your trip, you can choose among different sizes, compartments, shapes, etc. Defining your trip will help you make your choice: a garment bag for a business trip, a small hand luggage for a low cost getaway, a bag for a backpacking adventure... Think how you travel the most to take the most out of your suitcase.

2. Choose quality of materials and customer service

Quality is a key factor when we buy any item. But luggage are supposed to last long, so this is a key tip. Check out the quality of the materials, see if it comes with a warranty and make sure customer service is great.

The travel luggage is usually treated badly - at some point, it is quite likely that some parts have scratches or appear broken. To solve this issue, you will have to notify the customer service of your luggage. A good suitcase should include a good warranty (around 5 years). If it does, you will be sure that your suitcase will be safe and sound even after the worst flights. Investing a little bit more in the initial prize may imply that the suitcase will last long.

When we talk about quality in a suitcase, we should not forget comfort. Good rolling systems, ergonomic and retractable handles or practical internal pockets are just some examples of a comfortable baggage.

3. Invest in security

Security is crucial in any trip, especially if you are taking an airplane. A TSA-approved lock allows TSA agents at national airports to check your luggage for security reasons. Having a TSA lock will ease the agents' duties, favor every citizen's security and your luggage will be intact by the end of the trip.

4. Bare size and weight in mind

Airlines have many different travelling restrictions when it comes to size and weight. Think about which airlines you usually travel with and consider their size and weight restrictions. When in doubt, choose a smaller option. You will be sure that you will pass almost every security section at the airport.

5. Compare offers

Price is not always a sign of quality or durability. Both online or offline shops have great deals from time to time. Take advantage of them! Comparing offers may help you getting the best price for a great quality.
