Regency Office Products is awarded the HP MPAS partner status, which is the highest designation given by the Imaging and Printing Group at HP.

Online PR News â€“ 13-January-2012 â€“ RALEIGH, N.C. (January 13, 2012) Regency Office Products (www.RegencyOfficeProducts.com), has been awarded the Hewlett Packard Managed Print Advanced Specialist partner status, a designation only given to the top one percent of all HP partners in the U.S.

Â

MPAS partner status is the highest designation given by the Imaging and Printing Group at HP. Currently there are fewer than 100 dealers in the entire country.

Â

"We are extremely proud to have received this designation from HP and look forward to our continued success as an HP partner," says Jonathan Durham, director of sales at Regency. "This achievement validates our commitment to superior service, competitive pricing and technology offerings."

Â

The HP MPAS status recognizes HP partners for building and delivering premier managed print solutions to their customers, as well as helping to reduce the customer's bottom line with a simpler and more affordable printing environment.

Â

Managing print services is the trend of the future. Experts predict fifty percent of all companies will implement an MPS program by 2013 as a way to save money, says Tanya Drake, director of MPS at Regency. The question is not whether companies will adopt this approach, its when.

Â

As an HP MPAS partner, Regency gains the competitive advantage of offering access to the highest levels of HP support, a first look at the latest HP technology and competitive pricing on HP hardware.
