Husk and Ceegramz have combined their individual talents to form the group SB (Smash Brothers). The South Jersey based artist earned their first distribution deal in early 2012. After signing the deal, SB is developing their brand by building a strong grassroots presence in the Philadelphia and South Jersey region. They have performed at various venues in the area including XO Lounge, Le Grand Fromage in Atlantic City and most recently opened for former state property member Philadelphia Freeway. SB is also spreading on social media with over 20,000 followers on their twitter fan page. The official video for "G-Pose" will debut on Worldstar Hip Hop in late February.
