Online PR News â€“ 20-June-2013â€“ Dena Clayton, publisher and editor of the Love Revealed series, is proud to announce the latest book in the series: Living Through Grief: Love Revealed, available starting June 21, 2013. Living Through Grief: Love Revealed is a collection of true stories of loss, from real people, and is perfect for those who enjoy inspirational stories, memoirs, and compassionate self-help books. Seventeen brave authors put their experiences down on paper to share with others in hopes that they may help make it just a little bit easier to get through the grief. Each touching story explores the emotions tied to loss and finding love in the midst of sorrow.

Grief is a tough subject to broach, as its often considered a private matter that is thought to be both uncomfortable and unmentionable. Living Through Grief: Love Revealed challenges the way readers respond to loss and mourning. Readers will witness a range of true and emotional experiences vividly described by the authors. Each essay in Living Through Grief: Love Revealed contains significant loss in the authors life. Readers will go on a journey through the depths of heart wrenching loss, experiencing the authors grief, and reach an almost spiritual awakening as love is revealed. The stories in Living Through Grief: Love Revealed offer words of inspiration and healing to readers that may be experiencing grief themselves. Its the perfect book to share with family members and close friends.

When asked why she chose to publish Living Through Grief: Love Revealed, Dena Clayton responded I want people to understand what it means to cut off emotions and how to make different (hopefully better) choices. Part of the reason I chose to create this book was that I have worked in the grief field for over twenty years. Our society in general still has a lot of misconceptions and unrealistic expectations about how to grieve. Each story in Living Through Grief: Love Revealed holds the potential to open readers to a broader understanding of what it means to grieve, and to possibilities of helpful life choices within the process of grieving.

Readers can grab a copy of Living Through Grief: Love Revealed from Amazon for $0.99 during the book launch on June 21, 22, and 23. A bundle package is also available on www.loverevealedstories.com for $0.99. This package will contain Living Through Grief: Love Revealed, in Mobi, ePub, and PDF format. During the launch, two free mp3 recordings are available to download; 1st mp3 is "A Few Words on Grief" and 2nd is "In the Midst of Grief: A Guided Practice for Your Everyday Life".

About The Authors

Seventeen authors joined together to write of their very own life experiences in losing someone they hold dear, such as a child, spouse, sibling, parent, grandparent, friend, or companion animal. Some of the deaths were in the past couple years, others were decades ago, and each experience was challenging.
