Career Guide also distributed to help Indian students find employability*

Online PR News “28-November-2013” Bangalore, November 27, 2013: British Council today launched the GREAT Scholarship and GREAT Career Guide in Bangalore as a part of the GREAT BRITAIN campaign (GREAT). This launch was announced at an exclusive Education UK exhibition hosted today at Vivanta by Taj, Bangalore for students who want to know more about education and living in the UK. In an endeavour to invite the brightest talent from India to study in the UK, British Council has announced the single largest number of scholarships ever launched in India, by offering around 370 scholarships worth almost 1 million pounds. British Council has also launched the GREAT Career Guide that features articles about popular subjects that Indian students choose to study in the UK and opportunities available after study. Launched in February 2012, GREAT is a strategic international marketing programme designed to promote the UK to business, tourism and student markets worldwide in order to enhance the countrys global reputation.

Â

We are delighted to launch the GREAT Scholarship programme in India. Alongside this we have also developed the GREAT Careers Guide, we hope these initiatives will provide support to Indian students with ambitions to study in the UK. The GREAT Campaign in India showcases the many benefits that British education offers. The Education UK Exhibitions and seminars held today will give students and their parents the latest information about study and student life in the UK. said Ottolie Wekezer Regional Director, Services of International Education Marketing (South Asia), British Council

Â

The one day exhibition in Bangalore was organised to provide information on undergraduate, postgraduate or research programmes in the UK and also give information on student life and culture. The exhibition in Bangalore witnessed participation from 56 UK universities. The exhibition also had a UK Visa and Immigration stall managed by the UK Visa and Immigration officers of British Deputy High Commission to assist the visitors with all queries pertaining to the student visa regulations and policies. UK Visa and Immigration officers from the British Deputy High Commission also delivered a seminar on student visas. The exhibition was supplemented with informative seminars that were delivered by academicians from the UK institutions on subjects such as biotechnology, IT & engineering. Additionally, the exhibition had a mock classroom session on Corporate Law and a comparative session on MBA vs. MSc.

Â

Now is an excellent time for students to visit the UK for a top quality education and cultural experience. We welcome Indias brightest and best talent to the UK, where they will gain internationally recognised qualifications from top-ranking global institutions, and a rich overall experience in the form of engagement with the UKs history, art, culture and landscapes. said Paul Sellers, Director British Council (South India).

Â

The UK has been welcoming international students for over a century, with a global reputation for excellence in the field of education and skills. The UK welcomes over 400,000 overseas students to their institutions annually, of which almost 30,000 are from India.

Â

GREAT Scholarships

Â

Student Mobility is critical for cultural relations. The mutual movement of people and ideas between India and the UK helps create the condition for more creativity, innovation and enterprise. The British Council is working with partners across Government in the GREAT Campaign, promoting the UK as a destination to study. The GREAT scholarships would entail:

Around 370 scholarships worth almost 1 million pounds (approx. 100 million rupees) on offer

Scholarships will be offered for 260 undergraduate and postgraduate courses ranging from Engineering, Law and Business to Art & Design, Biosciences and IT

36 UK institutions across England, Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland are participating in this programme

Scholarships will be tenable for Sept 2014 and Jan 2015 intakes

Â

GREAT Career Guide

Â

As international experience is becoming more significant for employers in a globalised economy, Indian students are opting for overseas education in high numbers. These students have numerous concerns critical to their education and career which need to be addressed carefully. The British Council GREAT Career Guide addresses the same through the following:

Success stories of alumni

Contributory articles from UK university careers advisors

Articles of popular subjects that students choose to study by UK institutions

Tips that Indian students should keep in mind when looking for work options after graduating
