Cheyenne L Rouse opened Ancient Light Gallery in Old Town Scottsdale this past November. The Gallery is located on Marshall Way in the bustling Scottsdale Arts District. Rouse exhibits her Fine Art Photographs of the American West, as well as her latest photo series entitled, Ghosts of the West, a creative and nostalgic look at the American West and Southwest. Rouse says, I'd like to bring in a few other artists with a regional style like mine; I think jewelry or pottery would be a nice addition to the Gallery. Cheyenne L Rouse has been a professional photographer since 1989 and has had her photographs published in national and international publications as well as many ad campaigns.

Cheyenne's Fine Art Photographs hang in the homes and offices of numerous private collectors across the country. There are very few artists in the world that evoke such emotion in me. Salvador Dali, Kenny G, Barbra Streisand, and now Cheyenne L. Rouse. I am truly your biggest fan." Private Collector - Lake Mary, FL

Rouse will be holding book signings and openings at her Gallery as well as participating in Scottsdale's weekly Art Walk that is held every Thursday night from 7PM-9PM. Currently she offers private Photo Classes and Workshops to local scenic areas, please visit her website for more information: www.AncientLightPhotos.com

Originally from Miami, Rouse relocated to Scottsdale in June 2010 after living and working in Park City, Utah for 12 years. I love the desert and am so glad to call Arizona my home, the Southwest is a photographers paradise and now I am just a short drive from so many of my favorite photo destinations.
